Dear Mr. Carver:

You are cordially invited to participate in a series of briefings and round table discussions on the current Hudson Institute studies on Vietnam. These will be held in Room 5C1040, the Pentagon, from 0930 to 1630 on Thursday, 16 March 1967. The level of the meeting will be Secret.

The first briefing from 0930 to 1045 by Herman Kahn will present an introduction, context, and summary for the series of discussions, which will deal with alternative programs for military victory, negotiated settlements, and extensions of current pacification efforts.

From 1100 to 1200 Frank E. Armbruster will present a concept for achieving military victory through improved military and police security operations in South Vietnam. This will be followed by a discussion period (1200 to 1230).

After lunch, the next briefing (1400 to 1445) by Edmund Stillman and William Pfaff will be on how an improved military position could be used to achieve a satisfactory, negotiated settlement; i.e., on the feasibility and desirability of "cutting losses" rather than trying for "victory."

Raymond Gastil will then present a consideration of positive trends in the pacification effort in 1966 which should be supported and stabilized in 1967. Mr. Gastil will also discuss how more aggressive and comprehensive programs such as that of Mr. Armbruster may be fitted into this framework (1445 to 1530).

Following a coffee break, the discussion will continue (1545 to 1630). The Hudson Institute speakers and other staff members who participated in the studies will also be available for individual conferences, both after 1630 and by appointment the following day.
